

This certifies that

Sana Nazreen

has participated in the role of

Rapid Design Sprint Collaborator

as part of the Learning and Teaching CoLab in Semester 2, 2019

A handwritten signature in blue ink, reading 'Darbyshire'.

Professor Suzi Darbyshire (FHEA)
Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Learning and Teaching)

Queensland University of Technology is committed to innovation in Learning and Teaching, enabling partnerships between students and staff, and facilitating interdisciplinary collaboration.

By contributing to the QUT community as a

Rapid Design Sprint Collaborator

within the

Learning and Teaching CoLab

for

2.5 Days in Semester 2, 2019

Sana Nazreen

has demonstrated the following QUT Capabilities:

- Application of design thinking strategies within a rapid design sprint process based on knowledge gained from participation in:
 - a 3 hour ideation workshop,
 - a 4 hour prototyping workshop,
 - a 2 hour user research and prototype testing session,
 - a 2 hour pitching workshop,
- Collaboration in a multi-disciplinary team to develop innovative solutions.
- Development of a collaborative strategic pitch for stakeholders and a broader audience.